

Venue	Purpose
Product Development Conference	This is a venue for engineers to give presentations on the progress and/or result of product development projects, new technologies, and other topics that they think should be shared among the members of technology departments.
Design Review	This is a venue for engineers to discuss the development of new functions and technologies. We encourage specialists from various departments to participate so they can exchange ideas with other specialists and learn to have multiple perspectives, thereby enhancing our product development capability.
